Introduction: Our Commitment to Ethical and Effective Fundraising

The Association of Fundraising Professionals (AFP) is a professional organization whose members believe that philanthropy and fundraising are important aspects of our lives in society. AFP exists to foster the development and growth of both fundraising professionals and the profession itself and to promote high ethical behavior in fundraising practices. The AFP Code of Ethics and its Standards of Ethical Practice inform and govern the behavior of members and are designed to be applied alongside AFP's commitments to member fair behavior practices and IDEA (inclusion, diversity, equity and access).

The Code and Standards have a dual focus: (1) the duties of fundraisers to the organizations and communities they serve and to the donors who support those missions; and (2) the duties of fundraisers in relation to others in the profession and to the wider public.

This Code guides those practicing fundraising (individuals and organizations), and also applies to business members as they support fundraising practices.

The AFP Code of Ethics governs AFP individuals, organizations, and business members to:

- Practice their profession with integrity, honesty, truthfulness, and adherence to the absolute obligation to safeguard the public trust.
- Act according to the highest goals and vision of their organizations, professions, clients, and consciences.
- Put philanthropic mission above personal gain.
- Inspire others through their own sense of dedication and higher purpose.
- Improve their professional knowledge and skills, so their performance will better serve others.
- Demonstrate concern for the interests and well-being of individuals affected by their actions.
- Value the privacy, freedom of choice and interests of all those affected by their actions.
- Foster cultural diversity and pluralistic values, treating all people with dignity and respect.
- Affirm, through personal giving, a commitment to philanthropy and its role in society.
- Adhere to the spirit as well as the letter of all applicable laws and regulations.
- Avoid even the appearance of any criminal offense or professional misconduct.
- Bring credit to the fundraising profession by their public demeanor.
- Encourage colleagues to embrace and practice these ethical principles and standards.
- Be aware of the codes of ethics shared by other professional organizations that serve philanthropy.

Ethical Standards (Adopted 1964; amended Oct 2014, Dec 2023)

Public Trust and Transparency

Fundraisers secure philanthropic support for organizations whose missions respond to community needs and aspirations.

We earn the trust of the public for our work — and ensure its effectiveness — by adhering to the highest standards of integrity, honesty, and respect. In accordance, members are expected to:

1. Not engage in activities that harm the members' organizations, clients, or profession or knowingly brings the profession into disrepute.
2. Comply with all applicable local, regional, and national laws and regulations.
3. Recognize their individual boundaries of professional competence and responsibility.
4. Convey information about programs, products, services, and mission-delivered solutions without misrepresentation.
5. Establish the purpose and scope of work at the beginning of any contractual relationship.
6. Refrain from knowingly infringing on the intellectual property rights of other parties.
7. Abstain from disparaging competitors.
8. When stating fundraising results, use accurate and consistent accounting methods that conform to the relevant guidelines adopted by the appropriate authority.

Conflicts of Interest

Potential or actual conflicts of interest can undermine confidence in members, their organizations, and professions. In accordance, members are expected to:

9. Avoid activities that conflict with or may conflict with their fiduciary, ethical and legal obligations to their organizations, clients or professions.
10. Disclose all potential and actual conflicts of interest. Such disclosure does not preclude or imply ethical impropriety.
11. Decline personal benefits such as invitations or personal gifts that arise as a result of relationships with donors, prospects, volunteers, or clients.

Solicitation & Stewardship of Philanthropic Funds

The solicitation, receipt and stewardship of donations must fulfill the organizations' promise to donors and should be handled with the utmost care and consideration. Honoring donors' wishes is core to the work fundraisers do on behalf of their organizations. In accordance, members are expected to:

12. Ensure all development marketing and communications are accurate.
13. Ensure donors receive informed, accurate and ethical information about the value and tax implications of contributions.
14. Affirm their primary responsibilities are to their organizations while also safeguarding the interests of donors.
15. Ensure contributions are used in accordance with donor intent and restrictions.
16. Ensure proper stewardship of donations, including timely reports on the use and management of the funds.
17. Obtain explicit consent from donors, donors' successors, or appropriate legal counsel before altering the conditions of previously restricted financial transactions.
18. Meet the legal requirements for the disbursement of funds received from donors on behalf of nonprofit clients.

Donor Privacy

Giving is a personal choice. In relationships with donors, fundraisers have access to information about individuals and their giving that they must respect. Organizations have an obligation to ensure donors' rights to privacy. This includes but is not limited to data protection standards and list management practices. In accordance, members are expected to:

19. Protect from disclosure confidential information to unauthorized parties as defined by an organization's policies and procedures.
20. Recognize information created on behalf of an organization, including donor and prospect information, is the confidential intellectual property of that organization and may not be taken, shared with, or transferred to other entities.
21. Convey to donors and clients that they can request omission of personal information from future organizational use.
22. Convey to donors and clients that they can request omission of personal information from lists that are sold, rented, or exchanged where such exchanges are allowed.

Ethical Standards (Adopted 1964; amended Oct 2014, Dec 2023)

Fair, Equitable, and Transparent Compensation Practices

We believe fundraisers should receive fair and equitable compensation for the work they do in support of organizational missions. In accordance, members are expected to:

23. Support fair and equitable compensation, which may include bonuses or merit pay in line with organizational practices but may never be based on a percentage of funds raised.
24. Decline receiving or paying finder's fees, commissions, or compensation based on a percentage of funds raised.
25. Refrain from offering or accepting payments or special considerations for the purpose of influencing the selection of products or services.
